

NACDL's 2009 Summer CLE Series — 3 DVD Set

Litigating Pre-Trial Restraint of Assets in Criminal Cases

The Supreme Court has characterized pre-trial asset restraint as a “nuclear weapon of the law” and the government consistently requests pre-trial asset restraining orders in almost all forfeiture cases. This program explores the current state of law, trends in government tactics, and defense strategies for combating these requests and preserving client assets pre-trial. Moderated by forfeiture expert David B. Smith, the panel of highly experienced white collar defenders dissects this complex area of criminal law and provides defense attorneys with critical tips for protecting client assets.

Testimonial Traps: Defense Strategies for Invoking the 5th Amendment in Civil Cases, Investigations & Other Proceedings

Clients in criminal cases are often involved in civil cases and other investigations and proceedings. What they say in these contexts can and will be held against them. This program provides practical guidance on the often tricky issues that arise when considering whether and how a client may remain silent.

Participating Faculty:

Ross H. Garber

(Shipman & Goodwin LLP, Hartford, CT)

Benjamin D. Brown

(Cohen Milstein, Washington, DC)

Pamela J. Marple

(McDermott Will & Emery LLP, Washington, DC)

The Strategy of Secrets: The Use of Classified Information in White Collar Cases

The Classified Information Procedures Act (CIPA) establishes detailed procedures for “matters relating to classified information that may arise in connection” with a prosecution. In today’s world, the use of evidence the government would rather keep secret has started to, and will continue to, seep into a wide range of federal criminal prosecutions. This panel of highly experienced white collar defenders will provide strategic guidance in how to respond when the government claims the evidence in your case is classified as well as when a defender might use CIPA to their own advantage for affirmative discovery.

Participating Faculty:

Joshua Dratel

(New York, NY)

Abbe David Lowell

(McDermott Will & Emery LLP, Washington, DC)

Edward B. MacMahon, Jr.

(Middleburg, VA)

Valued at up to 2 hours of CLE self-study credit.
