(b)(6); (b)(7)(C) - FYI. This was an article out of the California "Daily Journal", which is a California legal newspaper. I know NERO has had these issues coming up as well.

Interesting article from the Daily Journal about proposed legislation to prohibit federal prosecutors from reading attorney-client privileged emails.

I note that in Los Angeles, taint attorneys review emails to avoid attorney client privileged emails from being provided to the prosecutor. This legislation seems to imply a change could be required of TRULINCS.
