Case No. _____

Civil Case Code 30704 – Other Injunction or Restraining Order

CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT

Plaintiffs Antrell Thomas, Melvin Clemons, Christian Pittman, Chance Kratochvil, Kelsie McGeshick, Logan Arsenyevictz, Jerome Brost, and Dwight Moore (collectively, "Plaintiffs"), on behalf of themselves and all others similarly situated, hereby allege as follows:

INTRODUCTION

1. The United States Constitution and the Wisconsin Constitution guarantee that people accused of crimes have the right to the assistance of an attorney for their defense. The United States Supreme Court has recognized that this right to counsel is "a bedrock principle" that constitutes the very "foundation for our adversary system" of criminal justice.[1] And the Wisconsin Supreme Court has emphasized that "[t]he right to counsel in criminal proceedings is a fundamental constitutional right and a cornerstone of our justice system."[2] Because "lawyers in criminal courts are necessities, not luxuries,"[3] Wisconsin is required by law to provide an attorney to criminal defendants who cannot afford legal representation.

2. The United States Constitution and the Wisconsin Constitution require Wisconsin to appoint counsel to indigent defendants within a reasonable time after the defendant's initial appearance.[4]

3. Likewise, the Wisconsin legislature passed a set of laws that were supposed to "provide for a prompt determination of indigency and appointment of a public defender."[5]

4. "Prompt" means without undue delay. Indeed, the Wisconsin Supreme Court has "condemned"[6] delays in the appointment of counsel that take longer than 10-14 days, consistently finding such delays to be unreasonable.[7]

5. But Wisconsin consistently takes longer than 14 days to provide counsel to indigent criminal defendants.

6. These delays have dire consequences. As Defendant Kelli Thompson, the Wisconsin State Public Defender, recently acknowledged, many indigent criminal defendants languish in jail waiting for legal representation: "We have individuals sitting in custody waiting for their day in court. We have individuals whose family members are impacted because they're not home with their families."[8]

7. Defendant Thompson has conceded that the failure to provide timely legal representation "is a statewide problem," and admitted that it will take years to clear a backlog of roughly 35,000 cases.[9] While this is a statewide problem impacting indigent defendants across Wisconsin, the problem is especially acute in Brown County, where the County Board of Supervisors had to pass a resolution in 2021 calling on the Governor and Legislature to take action to address a backlog of criminal cases because, at the time, there were "approximately 350 defendants in Brown County which currently need SPD representation, 17 of which have been in custody and sought representation for over 100 days."[10]

8. Given this Constitutional crisis, Plaintiffs request that this Court certify a class of current and future indigent defendants who have not received or do not receive appointed counsel within 14 days after their initial appearances, and enter an Order (1) requiring Defendants to immediately appoint counsel for the class members or, (2) if timely appointment of counsel is not feasible, dismissing the class members' cases with prejudice.

GENERAL ALLEGATIONS

I. Wisconsin must appoint counsel on behalf of indigent defendants within a reasonable time after their initial appearances.

34. Both the United States Constitution and the Wisconsin Constitution safeguard a criminal defendant's right to counsel. The Sixth Amendment to the United States Constitution provides that "[i]n all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right … to have the Assistance of Counsel for his defense."[11] Similarly, Article I, Section 7 of the Wisconsin Constitution provides that "[i]n all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to be heard by himself and counsel . . . ."[12] The right to counsel "embodies a realistic recognition of the obvious truth that the average defendant does not have the professional legal skill to protect himself when brought before a tribunal with power to take his life or liberty[.]"[13]

35. Over 50 years ago, the United States Supreme Court held that each State must provide a lawyer for defendants who are unable to afford one.[14] "Lawyers in criminal cases

[11] U.S. Const. amend. VI.
[12] According to the Wisconsin Supreme Court, the right to counsel under the Wisconsin Constitution is identical to its federal counterpart. See State v. Delebreau, 2015 WI 55, ¶¶ 52–57.

[14] Gideon, 372 U.S. 335.

are necessities, not luxuries," the Court explained, "[w]ithout counsel, the right to a trial itself would be of little to no avail . . . ."[15]

36. Because a defendant "requires the guiding hand of counsel at every step [of] the proceedings against him [or her]," the State must appoint an attorney well in advance of trial. Accordingly, United States Supreme Court precedent holds that a defendant's right to counsel "attaches" upon the State's "initiation of adversary judicial criminal proceedings" against the defendant.[16] At that time, "the defendant is faced with the prosecutorial forces of [the State] and immersed in the intricacies of substantive and procedural criminal law that define his capacity and control his [or her] actual ability to defend himself [or herself]."[17]

37. Once the defendant's right to counsel attaches, the Sixth Amendment "guarantees [the] defendant the right to have counsel present at all 'critical' stages of the criminal proceedings."[18] Beyond trial, "[c]ritical stages include arraignments, postindictment interrogations, postindictment lineups, and the entry of a guilty plea."[19]

38. To provide effective assistance of counsel at these critical stages, however, an attorney must have time and opportunity to properly prepare a defense. Thus, states "must … appoint[] [counsel] within a reasonable time after attachment[.]"[20]

39. In Wisconsin, a defendant's right to counsel attaches at the defendant's initial appearance before a judge under Wis. Stat. § 970.01 (if not earlier).[21]

[21] Id. at 209 ("[B]ringing a defendant before a court for initial appearance signals a sufficient commitment to prosecute and marks the start of adversary judicial proceedings.").

40. Accordingly, the U.S. Constitution and the Wisconsin Constitution require that the State of Wisconsin appoint an attorney on behalf of a qualified indigent defendant within a reasonable time after his or her initial appearance, and the State's failure to do so violates the defendant's right to counsel.

II. Defendants are responsible for carrying out the State of Wisconsin's duty to appoint attorneys for qualified indigent defendants.

41. Under Wisconsin law, the Governor and the SPD are jointly responsible for fulfilling the State of Wisconsin's constitutional obligation to appoint attorneys on behalf of qualified indigent defendants.[22]

42. The Governor is ultimately responsible for ensuring that the State of Wisconsin carries out its constitutional duties. Article 5, Section I of the Wisconsin Constitution provides that the "executive power" of the State of Wisconsin "shall be vested in a governor."[23] As the Wisconsin Supreme Court has explained, "[e]xecutive power is power to execute or enforce the law . . . ."[24] In exercising this power, the Governor "shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed."[25]

43. The SPD is specifically responsible for providing representation for those unable to afford an attorney. According to the Wisconsin Supreme Court, "[t]here is little doubt that the legislature, in creating the [SPD], intended to structure a comprehensive state-wide program to deal with the appointment of counsel for indigent defendants."[26]

[22] State v. Lee, 2021 WI App 12, ¶ 37 (referring to the SPD as "the primary agency responsible for providing counsel to indigent defendants.").
[23] Wis. Const. Art. V, § 1.
[24] SEIU, Local 1 v. Vos, 2020 WI 67, ¶1.
[25] Wis. Const. Art. V, § 4.
[26] In re Finding of Contempt Relative to Attorney's Fees, 137 Wis. 2d 65, 76–77 (1987).

44. The SPD "is a statutory creation and its . . . actions are governed by statute and administrative code rules."[27]

45. When a case is referred to the SPD, Wisconsin law provides that the SPD "shall assign counsel" to the defendant. The SPD may either assign the case to one of its staff attorneys or an attorney from the private bar. See Wis. Stat. §§ 977.05(4)(i), (j), (jm); 977.05(5)(a); 977.07; 977.08. Although the SPD can fulfill the State's obligation to furnish counsel in either of these two ways, the SPD must provide the defendant with counsel within a reasonable time after attachment, or the right to counsel is violated.

III. For years, Wisconsin has systematically failed to provide indigent defendants with constitutionally adequate counsel.

46. Despite the fundamental nature of the right to counsel, indigent criminal defendants across Wisconsin have long been subject to unconstitutional delays, which can span many months, before they have counsel. For many defendants, these delays are spent languishing in jail or in a legal limbo during which their lives and cases remain on hold. This delay is itself a deprivation of counsel and constitutes a violation of the right to counsel.

47. Defendants are failing to fulfill the State's Constitutional obligation to provide timely assistance of counsel. For one, the SPD has failed to hire and retain enough staff attorneys to handle the volume of cases being prosecuted by the State. According to Defendant Thompson, the Wisconsin State Public Defender's Office is currently around 17-20% short of being fully staffed.[28] As a result, SPD staff attorneys are inundated with cases.[29]

48. Defendant Thompson has conceded that the status quo is "unsustainable" and "potentially jeopardize[s] the constitutional rights" of the SPD's clients.[30]

49. This problem is exacerbated by the fact that private attorneys handle nearly half of all SPD-eligible representations, yet Wisconsin's compensation of these appointed attorneys is woefully inadequate. In 1995, the state cut the pay for private attorneys taking public defender cases from $50 per hour to $40 per hour.[31] For the next 15 years, court appointed attorneys in Wisconsin were paid only $40, the lowest rate in the country.[32] This rate remained in effect until it was increased in 2020.

50. Not surprisingly, the number of private attorneys willing and able to accept these appointed cases has steadily decreased.[33] For example, between 2012 and 2017, the number of private attorneys willing to take SPD appointments dropped by 16%.[34] And over the last two years, the number of private attorneys has fallen by another 33%.[35]

51. Today, the process for finding a private attorney to represent an indigent defendant in Wisconsin has become absurd. One former assistant state public defender, Lee Schuchart, has said that he knows of "at least one defendant who went through 300 lawyers before one agreed to represent them."[36] Similarly, Adrienne Moore, a regional attorney manager for the Racine Region Public Defender's Office said in 2018, "It is not uncommon for our appointment secretaries to make 250 to 300 contacts on a complex felony."[37]

52. To illustrate the magnitude of the problem, Plaintiffs have compiled a spreadsheet, attached as Exhibit A, which lists a number of the cases for which the SPD office has sought to appoint private attorneys during the summer of 2022. Specifically, Exhibit A includes a compilation of solicitations received for cases pending in Brown, Calumet, Florence, Fond Du Lac, Forest, Green Lake, La Crosse, Langlade, Lincoln, Marathon, Milwaukee, Monroe, Oneida, Outagamie, Ozaukee, Portage, Price, Racine, Sawyer, Shawano, Sheboygan, Taylor, Trempealeau, Vilas, and Waupaca counties between June 3, 2022, and August 18, 2022. As Exhibit A illustrates, there are at least hundreds—if not thousands—of people charged with criminal offenses in Wisconsin waiting for the assistance of an attorney. For many of these defendants, it will be months before they receive counsel.

53. These delays have devastating legal consequences for those accused, as Wisconsin Supreme Court Justice Dallet recently explained:

> Uncounseled defendants may be hindered in their ability to prepare a defense, engage in plea negotiations, or seek pretrial release… [n]ot to mention that delays in appointing counsel may lead to the same negative consequences as any other pre-trial delay, such as postponing closure for victims or increasing the chance that witnesses may become unavailable….[38]

54. These delays also have devastating personal consequences. Defendant Thomas, for example, is 29 years old and the father of five children. He has been in pretrial detention at the La Crosse County Jail for nearly a year. During that time, Mr. Thomas has been unable to work or spend any time with his children aside from infrequent phone calls. Yet despite the months in custody, no meaningful progress has been made on his case because Defendants have failed to provide him with an attorney.

IV. Efforts to address the crisis of indigent defense in Wisconsin have been ineffective.

55. There have been modest efforts to address the crisis of indigent defense in Wisconsin, but these efforts have been ineffective. For too long, the right to counsel has been treated as a right subject to deferral, compromise, and half-measures, which inevitably come at the expense of those constitutionally entitled to public defense representation, and, collaterally, their children, families, employers, and communities. No one has taken responsibility for these failures, and no one has provided the public with the information necessary to understand the magnitude of the problem.

56. More than a decade ago, in 2010, the Wisconsin Supreme Court sent an unambiguous message to the legislature regarding the funding for indigent defense:

> [O]ur criminal justice system is reaching a breaking point. The resources available for the defense of poor people accused of crime has fallen alarmingly, potentially compromising our constitutional responsibility to ensure that every defendant stands equal before the law and is afforded the right to a fair trial guaranteed by our constitution. If this funding crisis is not addressed we risk a constitutional crisis that could compromise the integrity of our justice system."[39]

57. Eight years later, in 2018, the Wisconsin Supreme Court raised its own court-appointed attorney rate from $70 per hour to $100 per hour, beginning in January 2020.[40] In comparison, the mean billing rate for criminal law attorneys in Wisconsin at that time was

$168 per hour.[41] While increasing their own rate for court-appointed attorneys, the Court once again sent a clear message to the Wisconsin legislature:

> Chronic underfunding of the Office of the State Public Defender (SPD) has reached a crisis point. That Wisconsin's compensation rate for SPD appointed attorneys is abysmally low is not in dispute… We hope that a confrontation in the form of a constitutional challenge will not occur and trust that the legislature will work with the courts, the SPD, the petitioners, the counties, and other justice partners to ensure adequate funding for the SPD that is urgently needed to forestall what is clearly, an emerging constitutional crisis.[42]

58. Despite this small progress, the rate of compensation paid by the state to private attorneys assigned by the Wisconsin SPD remained at a mere $40 per hour, the lowest in the country.[43] This was not even enough to cover overhead expenses.[44]

59. In 2020, the Wisconsin legislature finally raised the rate of compensation for private attorneys assigned by the SPD for the first time since 1995.[45] Unfortunately, the rate was only raised to $70 per hour—the very same rate the Wisconsin Supreme Court deemed inadequate two years earlier.[46]

60. Inevitably, these rate increases—modest, static, and inadequate from the start—have not meaningfully affected the continuing violation of indigent defendants' Sixth and Fourteenth Amendment rights.

61. Ultimately, whatever the cause of this crisis may be, the stark and ongoing reality is that the number of indigent defendants in need of counsel continues to remain at an unacceptably high level in jurisdictions throughout Wisconsin.

V. Defendants have failed to timely appoint counsel on behalf of Plaintiffs and the class.

62. The State of Wisconsin is obligated by the United States and Wisconsin Constitutions to provide counsel to Plaintiffs and other indigent defendants within a reasonable time after their initial appearances.

63. The Wisconsin Supreme Court has indicated that a delay of greater than 14 days is unreasonable. In 1966, the Wisconsin Supreme Court described an 11-day delay between the defendant's initial appearance and appointment of counsel "regrettable" and stressed that it "should be avoided in a properly administered system of justice."[47]

64. In 1967, the Wisconsin Supreme Court was confronted with a 14-day delay. After explaining that "these delays should be minimized in our criminal justice system," the Court required that, once an indigent defendant has an initial appearance before a court, "counsel be appointed at that time."[48]

65. In 1968, a 10-day delay was called "troublesome" but, given the rule set down the year before, the Wisconsin Supreme Court emphasized that this should have been "the last of the cases in which lengthy time lags between initial appearances in court and appointment of counsel need be explained or excused."[49]

66. Indeed, even after the creation of the State Public Defender, the Wisconsin Supreme Court still maintained in the 1970s that "no occasion should arise where a 'lengthy time lags between initial appearances in court and appointment of counsel[.]'"[50]

[47] Wolke v. Rudd, 32 Wis. 2d 516, 520 (1966).

[50] Okrasinski v. State, 51 Wis. 2d 210, 213–14 (1971).

67. Defendants have persistently failed to meet this obligation, and it will continue to do so unless this Court grants the relief requested by Plaintiffs.

68. Plaintiffs have all been charged with crimes punishable by terms of imprisonments and, despite qualifying for state-appointed counsel, have not received appointed attorneys for more than fourteen days after their initial appearances.

69. These circumstances are typical of experiences of thousands of indigent defendants across the State.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

70. Plaintiffs bring this lawsuit as a class action pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and Wis. Stat. § 803.08, on behalf of themselves and all others similarly situated who are or will in the future be affected by Defendants' unconstitutional policies, practices, and customs.

71. Proposed Class: The Named Plaintiffs seek to represent a class comprised of all indigent persons in the State of Wisconsin who have been charged with a crime that carries a term of imprisonment, do not have appointed counsel as of the filing of this action, and have not been appointed counsel within fourteen days of their initial appearance, or who will be charged with a crime and not appointed counsel within fourteen days of their initial appearance during the pendency of this litigation.

72. Excluded from the Class is any person who files a valid and timely request for exclusion.

73. Plaintiffs reserve the right to amend or otherwise alter the class definition presented to the Court at the appropriate time in response to facts learned through discovery, legal arguments advanced by Defendants, or otherwise.

74. This action is properly maintainable as a class action.

75. Numerosity: The class is so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable. Indeed, in 2021, Brown County alone acknowledged that there were "approximately 350 defendants in Brown County which currently need SPD representation, 17 of which have been in custody and sought representation for over 100 days." And the Wisconsin Public Defender recently explained that the pandemic exacerbated a problem that was already in motion and that it will take years to clear a backlog of 35,000 cases. Further, because the class includes future members, the size of the class will continue to increase so long as Defendants' unconstitutional practices persist.

76. Commonality and Predominance: There are numerous and important questions of law and fact raised in this case that are common to the class, including, but not limited to whether a failure to appoint counsel 14 days after an indigent defendant's initial appearance is a violation of the defendant's Constitutional right to counsel.

77. Typicality: The Named Plaintiffs' claims or defenses are typical of the claims or defenses of the proposed class. The Constitutional deprivations Plaintiffs have suffered are the same as those of the putative class members. Plaintiffs' and the Class members' claims arise from the same practices and course of conduct and are based on the same legal theories.

78. Adequacy of Representation: The Named Plaintiffs and their attorneys will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class. Plaintiffs have no interests antagonistic to the proposed class, and they are represented by attorneys with significant experience in criminal procedure and complex civil litigation.

79. Superiority: A class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of the present controversy because it will permit a large number of claims to be resolved in a single forum simultaneously, efficiently, and without the unnecessary hardship that would result from the prosecution of numerous individual actions and the duplication of discovery, effort, expense and burden on the courts that individual actions would engender. The benefits of proceeding as a class action, including providing a method for obtaining redress for claims that would not be practical to pursue individually, are far superior to any difficulties that might be argued with regard to the management of this class action. This superiority makes class litigation superior to any other method available for the fair and efficient adjudication of these claims. Absent a class action, it would be highly unlikely that the representative Plaintiffs or any other members of the Class would be able to protect their own interests because the cost of litigation through individual lawsuits might exceed expected recovery.

80. Because Plaintiffs seek relief for all members of the Class, the prosecution of separate actions by individual members would create a risk of inconsistent or varying adjudications with respect to individual members of the Class, which would establish incompatible standards of conduct for Defendant.

81. The prerequisites to maintaining a class action for injunctive or equitable relief are met as Defendants have acted or refused to act on grounds generally applicable to the Class, thereby making appropriate final injunctive or equitable relief with respect to the Class as a whole.

82. The prerequisites to maintaining a class action are met as questions of law or fact common to Class members predominate over any questions affecting only individual members, and a class action is superior to other available methods for fairly and efficiently adjudicating the controversy.

83. Defendants' actions and omissions in violation of the federal and state constitutions apply generally as a whole; thus, final injunctive and declaratory relief is appropriate for the proposed class pursuant to Wis. Stat § 803.08 (2)(b).

CLAIMS FOR RELIEF

COUNT I
Violation of 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and the Sixth and Fourteenth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution
(All Plaintiffs and the Class against All Defendants)

84. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference as if fully set forth herein the allegations contained in all preceding paragraphs of this Complaint.

85. Section 1983 of the U.S. Code provides a cause of action against any "person" who, under color of state law, subjects an individual "to the deprivation of any rights, privileges, or immunities secured by the Constitution." A state official sued in their official capacity for prospective equitable relief is a "person" within the meaning of Section 1983.

86. The Sixth Amendment to the United States Constitution, as incorporated through the Fourteenth Amendment, requires the State of Wisconsin to ensure that an indigent defendant facing potential imprisonment receive meaningful and effective legal representation at all critical stages of his or her cases.

87. To allow for adequate legal representation, the State must appoint counsel on behalf of such a defendant within a reasonable time after his or her right to counsel attaches. A defendant's right to counsel attaches at his or her initial appearance under Wis. Stat. § 970.01. Thus, the State must appoint counsel within a reasonable time after a defendant's initial appearance.

88. Under Wisconsin law, Defendants are responsible for appointing counsel on behalf of indigent defendants. In carrying out this responsibility, Defendants act in their official capacities and under color of state law.

89. Plaintiffs and the Class are indigent and face potential imprisonment. And Plaintiffs' and the Class's rights to counsel attached at their initial appearances. Thus, the U.S. Constitution requires Defendants to appoint counsel on behalf of Plaintiffs and the Class within a reasonable time after their initial appearances.

90. Although more than fourteen (14) days have elapsed since the initial appearances of Plaintiffs and the Class, Defendants still have not appointed counsel on their behalf.

91. Accordingly, Defendants have violated—and continue to violate—Plaintiffs' and the Class's Constitutional rights to counsel.

COUNT II
Violation of Article 1, Section 7 of the Wisconsin Constitution
(All Plaintiffs and the Class against All Defendants)

92. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference as if fully set forth herein the allegations contained in all preceding paragraphs of this Complaint.

93. The right to counsel guaranteed by Article 1, Section 7 of the Wisconsin Constitution is substantially similar to the Sixth Amendment's right to counsel and is to be interpreted identically. Accordingly, the Wisconsin Constitution requires the State of Wisconsin to appoint counsel on behalf of indigent defendants within a reasonable time after their initial appearances.

94. Under Wisconsin law, Defendants are responsible for appointing counsel on behalf of indigent defendants. In carrying out this responsibility, Defendants act in their official capacities and under color of state law.

95. Plaintiffs and the Class are indigent and face potential imprisonment. And Plaintiffs' and the Class's rights to counsel attached at their initial appearances. Thus, the Wisconsin Constitution requires Defendants to appoint counsel on behalf of Plaintiffs and the Class within a reasonable time after their initial appearances.

96. Although more than fourteen (14) days have elapsed since the initial appearances of Plaintiff and the Class, Defendants still have not appointed counsel on their behalf.

97. Accordingly, Defendants have violated—and continue to violate—Plaintiffs' and the Class's right to counsel in violation of Article 1, Section 7 of the Wisconsin Constitution.

RELIEF REQUESTED

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs respectfully request that this Court:

a. Certify the proposed class pursuant to Wis. Stat. § 803.08;

b. Declare that Defendants are obligated to provide constitutionally adequate representation to indigent criminal defendants within 14 days of an indigent defendant's initial appearance.

c. Declare that the constitutional rights of Wisconsin's indigent criminal defendants who have not been appointed counsel within 14 days of their initial appearances are currently being violated by Defendants on an ongoing basis;

d. Enter an injunction that requires Defendants to immediately appoint counsel to all class members;

e. If timely appointment of counsel is not feasible, enter an Order dismissing the class members' cases with prejudice;

f. Award Plaintiffs and the Class reasonable attorneys' fees and costs incurred during this litigation pursuant to Wis. Stat. § 806.04(10) and any other applicable law; and

g. Grant any other relief the Court deems necessary and proper to protect Plaintiffs and the Class from further harm.

JURY DEMAND

Plaintiffs hereby demand a trial by jury of all issues so triable of right by a jury.
